The Golden Bison
Buffalo Gap High School
Swoope, Virginia 24479
Volume 23, 1985

Every citizen of his country, whether he pounds nails, raises corn, designs rockets, or writes poetry, should be taught to know and love his American heritage; to use the language well; to understand the physical universe, and to enjoy the arts. The dollars he gains in the absence of enlightenment like this will be earned in drudgery and spent in ignorance.

Calvin Gross

Helping each other out in warm ups are a couple of junior varsity football players.

Laughing at a speaker in a Spanish Club meeting are Mike Terry, Jennifer Bell, and Karen Cook.

Togetherness at a Varsity Club meeting are Beth Fultz, Tammy Clifton, Maria Hill, and Cheryl Grant.

Together in '85

Together in '85 was what being a Bison was all about.

Together we cheered on the girl's basketball team and the cross country team on their way to championships. Friends picked out prom dresses just waiting for that special moment. Seniors struggled to understand the 1984 presidential election and the intricacies of English term papers.

Couples got together for a night out on the town at Troubles Away Dance Club. Journalism students prepared a music video with the help of extras outside of the class. Sophomores learned to drive, and eighth graders learned their way to classes.

Showing that togetherness is a lot of fun, Susan Daniel and Todd Michael embrace in the hall.

I'm not a poor sport, says Randy Moyer as he is defeated by Darryl Cobb in the Miss Homely Homecoming Contest.

I'll get the job done, says Principal Glenn Burdick as he shovels snow.

Being Together

Sharing, caring, and just plain being together made student life complete for the mighty Bison.

The election of Reagan and the abortion controversy kept the Bison listening to the news. The threat of consolidation had many students wondering whether they would be returning to Gap or not.

Michael Jackson faded and Prince and the Revolution came into the picture with their movie Purple Rain.

The jazz band added a spark to the school, and instead of a musical the students performed a comedy, Get Smart.

Long earrings, rat tail haircuts, and anything purple hit the fashion scene. Olympic star Mary Lou Retton became the darling of T.V. commercials and the Cosby Show hit #1 among T.V. programs.

More than watching T.V., going to dances, or cheering at games, however, students at Buffalo Gap just like being together.

Hanging around in the hall, Jeremy Allen and Suzanne MacAllister cheer each other up after a long day.

"A student is not a professional athlete . . . A student is a person who is learning to fulfill his powers . . ."

Harold Taylor

Sophomores cheer at a pep rally.

"Mess with me," says Doug Johnson as he stands on a volleyball ladder.

Final Score: 35-6

The varsity football team made the 1984 Homecoming "Almost Paradise," as they stomped all over the Luray Bulldogs, 35-6.

Cindi Robertson, escorted by Tony Heflin, was crowned Homecoming Queen. The other senior representatives were Sandy Armstrong, escorted by Ricky Kelley, and Angie Crummett, escorted by Doug Johnson.

Class representatives were: eighth grade Janis Nagy, escorted by Trevor Costa; ninth grade Stacey Pierce, escorted by Eddie Colvin; tenth grade Amy Fultz, escorted by Rusty Sprouse; and eleventh grade Michelle Raybin, escorted by Chuck Bishop.

Rainbows, palm trees, and clouds set the scene for the dance Saturday night October 13, and "Sirius" provided the music.

Trying hard not to cry, Cindi Robertson, escorted by Tony Heflin, is crowned Homecoming Queen. Principal Glenn Burdick and 1983 Homecoming Queen Karrie Cash help with the crowning.

Waiting for the queen to be announced, eighth grade representatives Janis Nagy and Trevor Costa stand on the field.

Coming off the field are tenth grade representatives Amy Fultz and Rusty Sprouse.

Riding in the pre-game parade are ninth grade representatives Stacey Pierce and Eddie Colvin.

Slow dancing to the music of "Sirius," David Landis, Joe Burton, and Billy Surratt enjoy the dance.

Listening to the band play "Almost Paradise," are senior representatives Angie Crummett and Doug Johnson.

Rocking the house, "Sirius" jams out!

Staring into each other's eyes, Sandy Armstrong and Ricky Kelley dance to the music.

Demonstrating how to make a mask of his face is Mike Floyd.

For his yards rushing record throughout his career at Gap, Dmitri Smith receives a football from Russell Douglas.

Moving to the beat, Maria Hill gets down at a sock hop.

"Refreshments anyone?" says Jimmy Givens and Clay Chandler as they sell refreshments at a boys' basketball game.

Giving up his position on SCA, Mark Ratzlaff says his good-byes.

Get Smart

The hard work, long hours, and practice finally paid off on May 10 and 11. The nervousness disappeared and 23 hard working students showed their talents. Back stage before the show the actors were doing last minute make-up and rehearsing; then, suddenly it was time. "Places Everyone" and the curtain went up on the Drama Club's spring production of "Get Smart".

Maxwell Smart, the star of "Get Smart" was a bumbling secret agent who still managed to solve crimes. Max, known as Agent 86, was Mark Ratzlaff, his assistant agent 99 was Kathryn Smith, the chief was Dwayne Pitsenbarger, and the bad guy Mr. Big was Mike Listman.

Come in Chief. Max (Mark Ratzlaff) tries to reach his boss on his shoe phone to report in.

"Let us go! You can't keep us here forever," yell Jill (Sonya Wood), Ann (Suzanne McAllister), and May (Suzanne Hancock), after being kidnapped by Garth (Billy Surratt).

This is it! The chief (Dwayne Pitsenbarger), and his top agents (Kathryn Smith and

"86"? Max (Mark Ratzlaff) walks to the bus stop to meet Agent "99" (Kathryn Smith).

Boss! Garth (Billy Surratt) reports in to his boss Mr. Big (Mike Listman) on his special assignment of following Max and agent "99."

Jazzing up the pep rally, the Jazz Ensemble performs to increase the spirit of the students.

Looking up the street, Eric Bird performs at the Christmas Parade.

Getting the right beat, members of the band perform during half time.

Marching to the beat of a different drum, Junior Tony Bosserman concentrates on the music he is playing.

Play that Jazz to Please

Since 1964 the Jazz Ensemble has been playing music to please the public.

There are 20 members in the Jazz Ensemble. To become a member of the ensemble a student must be as outstanding performer on one of the instruments played in the ensemble. The instruments range from sax to drums, and many of the members of the ensemble play more than one instrument.

Some of the band's more popular selections include "The Stripper," "Shake, Rattle, and Roll," and "Stray Cat Strut."

The organization of the Jazz Ensemble is free flowing. Junior Mike Ailer, said he liked the group because, "The members of the Jazz Ensemble did not feel as much tension and were able to make more decisions about what was being played."

Sponsor Robert Moody said that the public seemed to be pleased by the Jazz Ensemble and its performance of jazz and jazz rock music. He also said that as long as there was an interest in the Jazz Ensemble, and students could perform well, it would continue to delight music lovers.

Kelly Maxwell Makes State

For the first time in at least six years a member of the Choral Department was chosen to represent Buffalo Gap in All-State Choir.

Junior Kelly Maxwell was the talented singer. She was one of the four students in Augusta County to receive the honor of singing with fellow State winners at Osborne Park High School in Manassas on May 2-4.

In order to go to All-State, Kelly first had to try out and be accepted for Regional Chorus. Then she had to try out for All-State. She competed against 47 other altos.

Kelly said, "It was a change from Songsters because I got involved with students on the same ability level. In Songsters we can take five pieces of music and prepare five months for a concert. It only takes three days at State."

Also Curt Stilley, Forrest Campbell, and Tony Bosserman were accepted to Regional Chorus which was at Eastern Mennonite College on February 8 and 9.

"You're the Inspiration"

The gym doors were barred, teachers stood guard everywhere, and inside Juniors worked like mad to get the gym ready for the 1985 Prom on April 27.

The Junior Class sponsored the dance and the decorations included pink and baby blue. Porch lights and streamers decorated the hall and a gazebo with a bird bath was the center of attraction.

Teresa Carter, escorted by David Armstrong, was crowned Prom Queen; and Grace Brown, escorted by Mark Ratzlaff, was Senior Representative. Jackie Vandevander, escorted by Larry Wooddell, was crowned prom princess, and Jennifer Bell escorted by Trevor Colvin, was Junior Representative.

The prom theme was "You're the Inspiration" and was performed by the band Loose Ends.

As Prom came to a close, the seniors talked about their evening while Juniors complained about the long hours of clean-up still ahead.

After being crowned Prom Queen, Teresa Carter, escorted by David Armstrong, dance to the theme "You're the Inspiration."

A very special moment for Jennifer Bell (escorted by Trevor Colvin) occurs as she is named Junior Class Representative.

A look of surprise has Grace Brown after winning the honor of Senior Representative. Her escort, Mark Ratzlaff shares the moment.

Clowning around in the hall, students take a break from dancing.

Members of the band Loose Ends, jam out and provide entertainment for the students.

All smiles is Jackie Vandevander as she is crowned Prom Princess.

Out on the Town

Dancing, dating, partying and cruising the avenue were some of the activities students enjoyed on the weekends.

Many students enjoyed attending the local Troubles Away Dance Club in Verona.

Chris Miller said, "The place is fun when there is nothing else to do, and it is an easy place to pick up girls."

Beth Fultz said she thought the place was popular because it kept kids out of trouble.

The dance club proved to be a worthwhile establishment for the area teens.

A moment of solitude. Marilyn Back stands in front of the Natural Chimneys.

Popping a wheelie is Shawn Michael during his leisure time.

How about a sundae? Susan Daniel fixes a sundae as part of her job at Tastee Freeze.

I love my horse. Katie Powers hugs her horse Chris. Katie enjoys riding horses in her spare time.

The Three Muskateers. Maria Hill, Michelle Howe, and Beth Fultz take a rest from dancing at a sock hop.

Taking a break from dancing are Rusty Sprouse, Amy Fultz, Sarah Fisher, Todd Ritchie, Katie Powers, and Zane Houff.

Studying Together

Working harder and studying together made academics soar in 1984-85.

A new Superintendent's list was added to the honor roll. Only those students maintaining an A average throughout an entire semester were eligible.

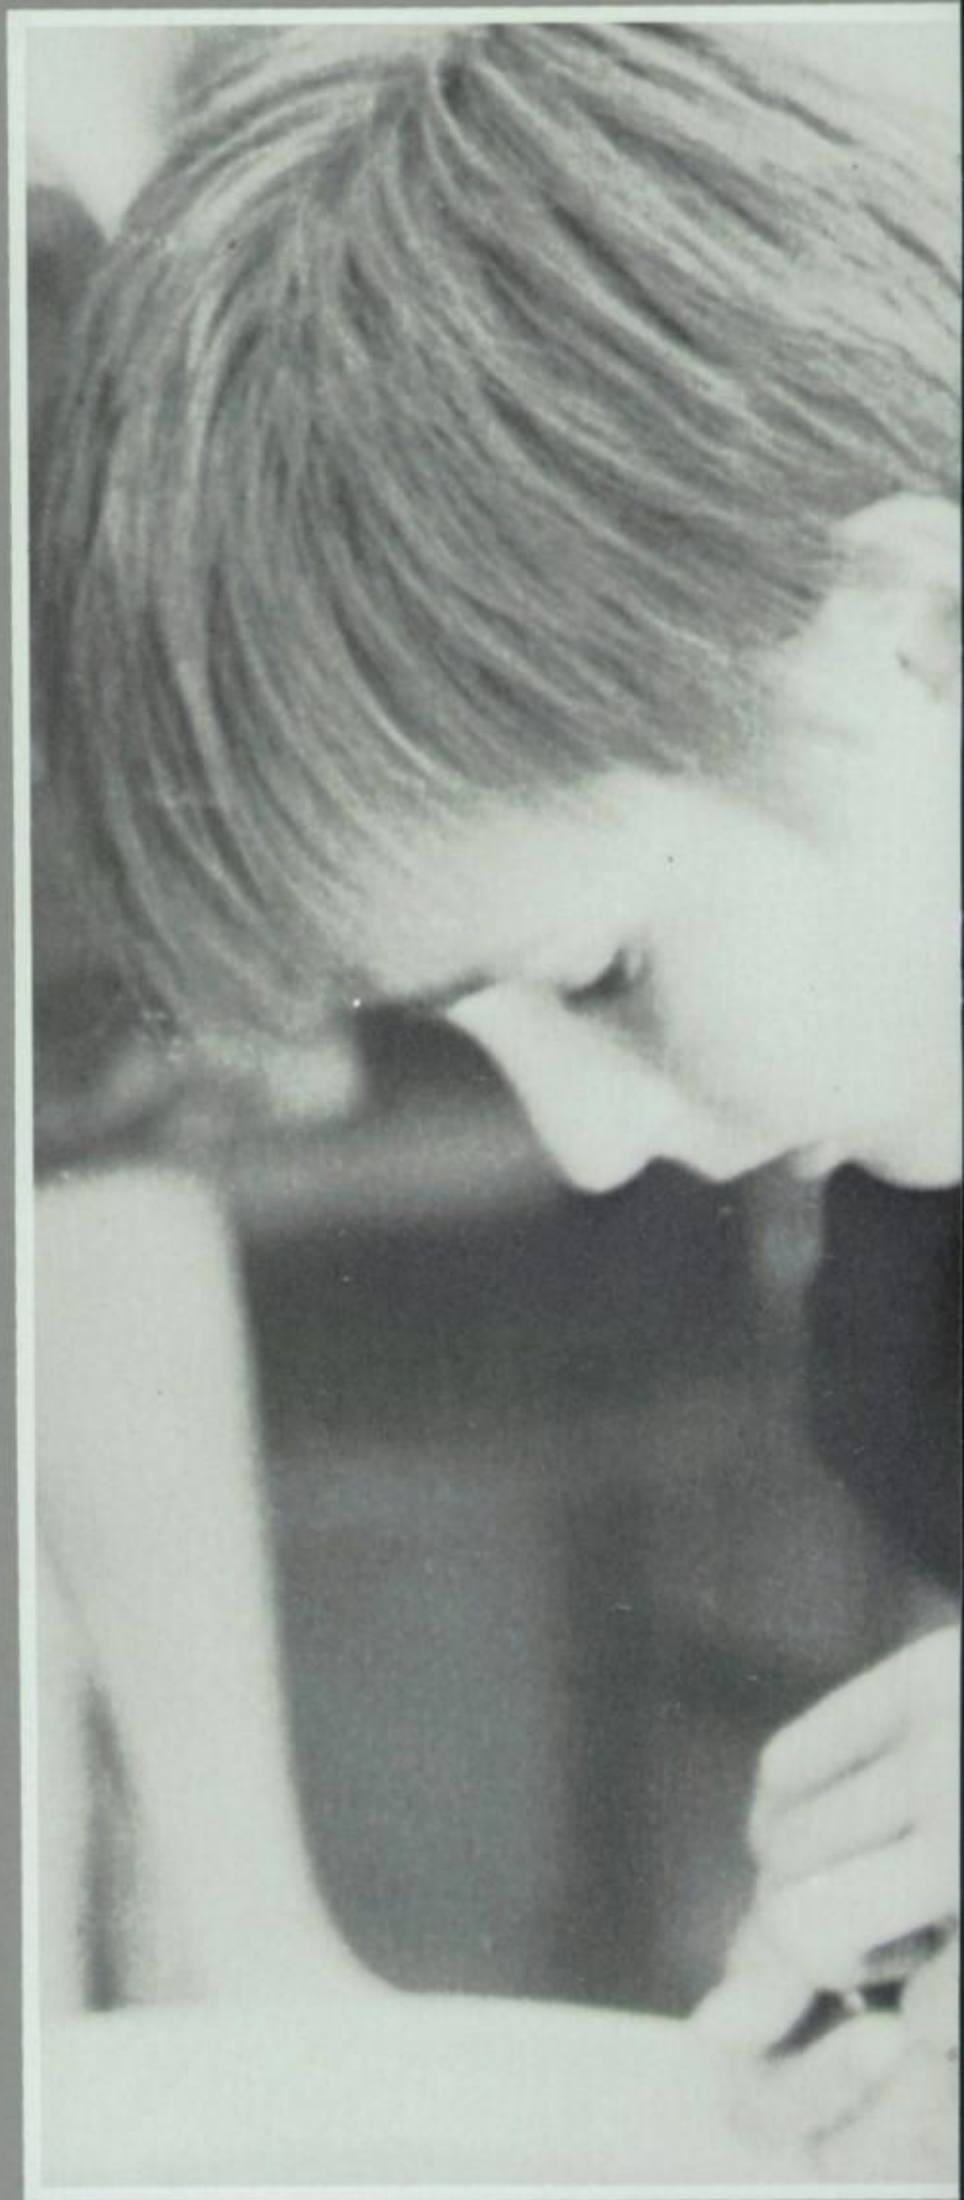

For the first time Gap instituted an Honor Code to emphasize the fact that students should be honest in everything they do. An Honor Council composed of club presidents promoted the code.

Gap also did a little rearranging — acquiring a new Latin room, a varsity room, and a new guidance room.

Foreign Language Week encouraged students to get involved in languages through contests and games.

The Science Fair was a big success as 112 Bison participated with 100 displays. Mike Remy and Kevin Brooks had the overall best display as they made a flame dance with sound waves.

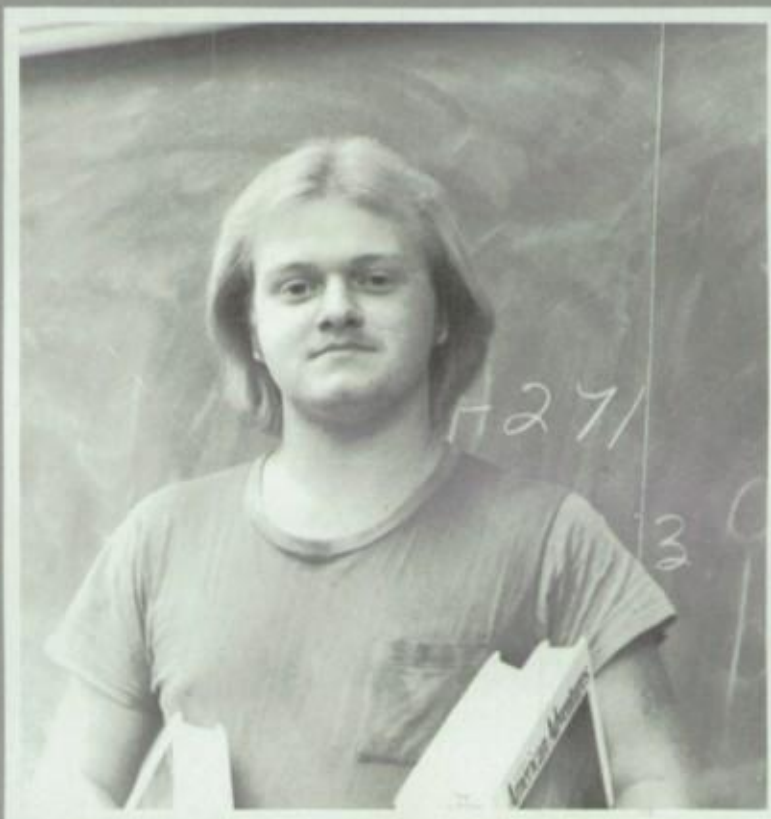

Meanwhile, students still struggled over vocabulary books, cursed geometry projects, and moaned about report cards.

Will it float? Chris Burdick experiments with floating pennies in science class.

"A child miseducated is a child lost."
John F. Kennedy

Taking charge of his government class, is an easy job for George Rowe.

Yuk! Mike Huffer and Randy Moyer play with cockroaches.

Super Shops

Gaining experience for a future in many work areas was what industrial arts was all about.

The basic areas studied were wood, metal, graphics, and mechanical drawing. The department received a new offset printing press and students built miniature cars and raced them against each other.

Getting background in agriculture and mechanics is what agriculture was all about.

The basic areas studied were the caring and raising of livestock, proper farm land management, and making the most of agricultural resources. Students also presented a farm show designed to show the public the importance of agriculture.

Working in agriculture are David Kira-cofe and Mike Huffer.

Running the saw, Randy Nuckoles works on his project for industrial arts.

Checking the specifications for his project, Allen Crummett works in agriculture shop.

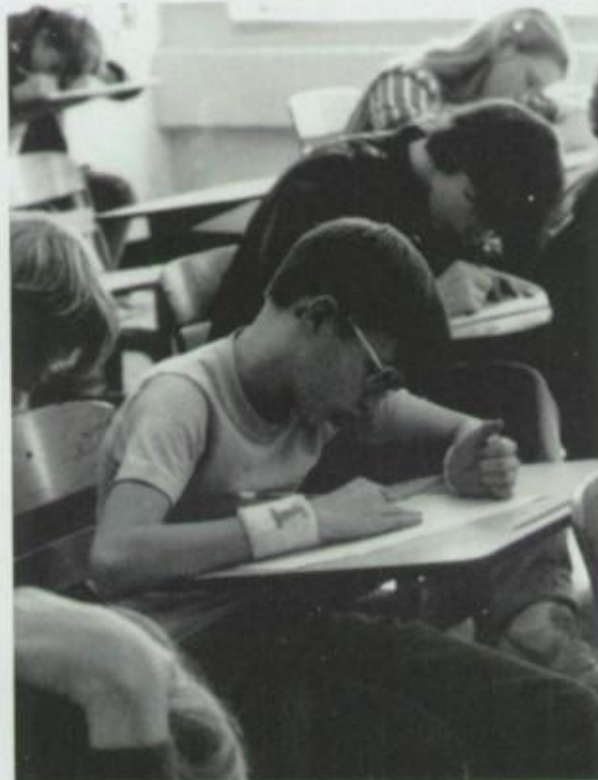

Clamping a board firmly into place are Dean Bird and John Eckard.

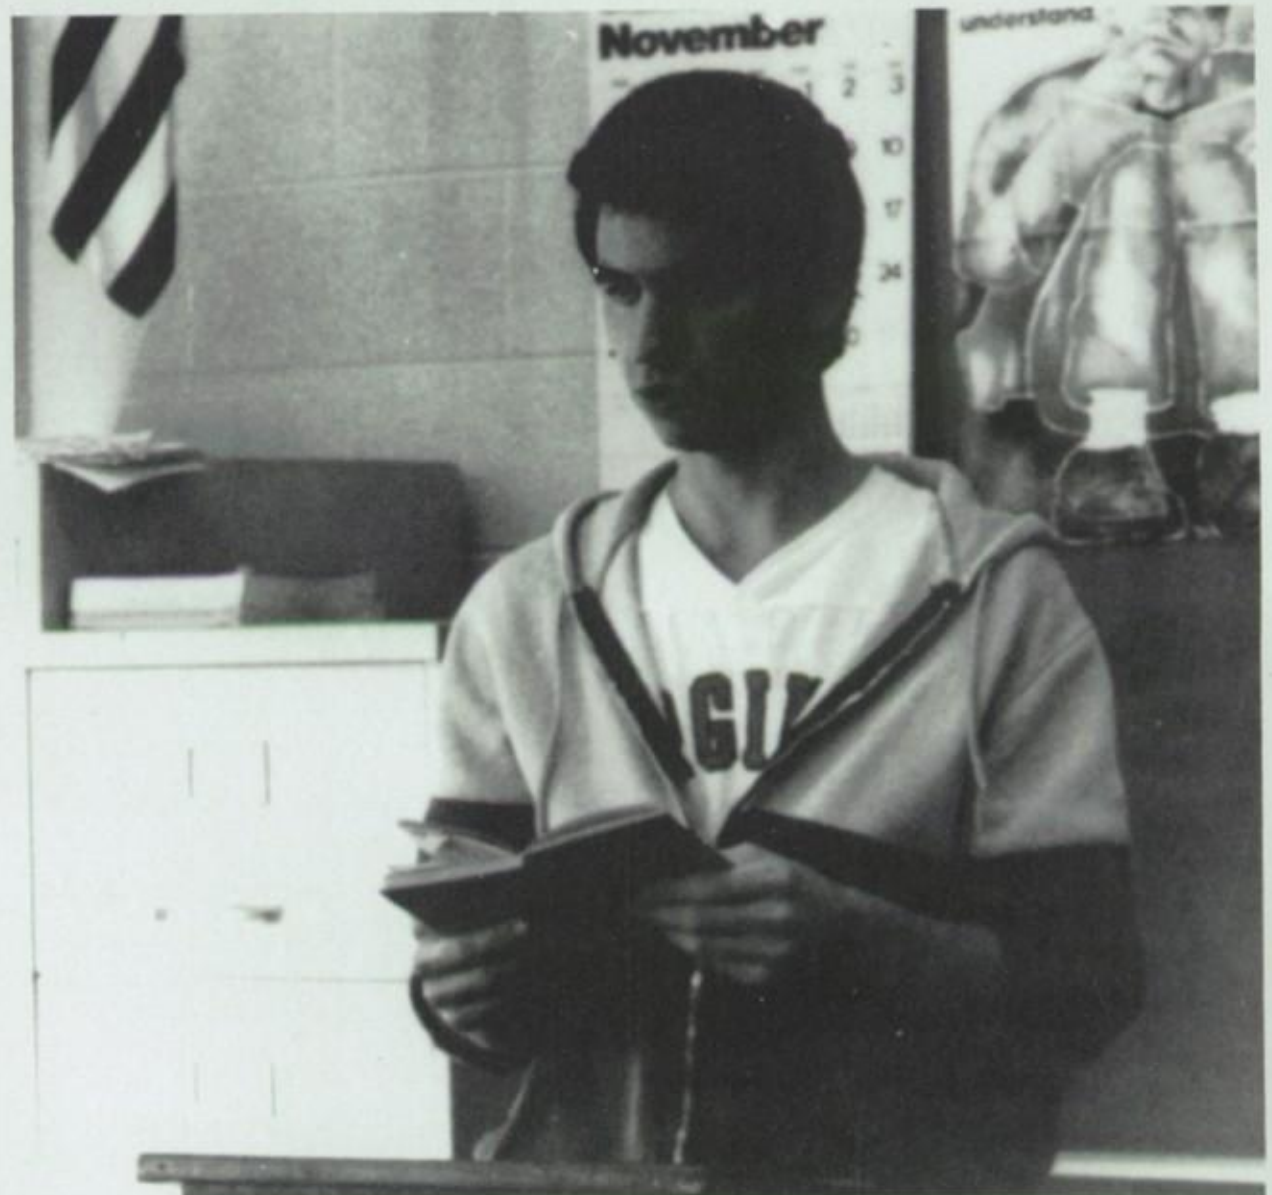

Handing out the morning bulletin, Tim Casady looks away from Miss Sue Gochenour.

Taking a test, Steven Cline works in Mrs. Donna Costa's English class.

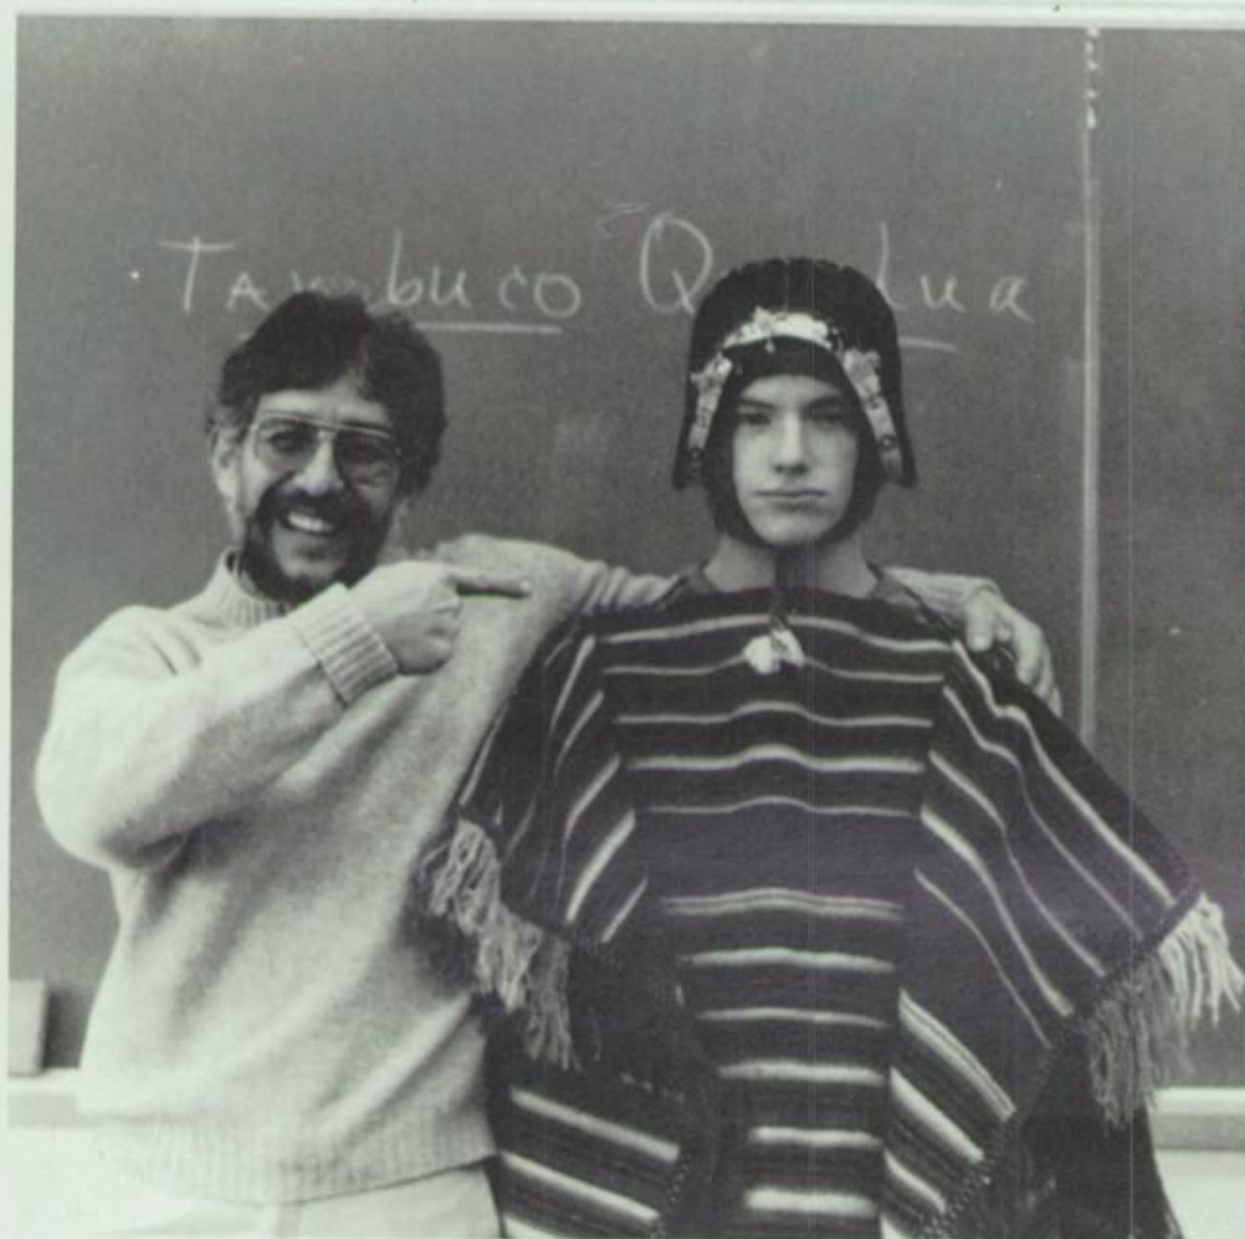

Helping each other out, Mark Hisey and Jennifer Lee study for a Spanish test.

Posing with Mr. Leonardo Lopez, Kevin Clinedinst models what a well dressed Tarabuco Quechun Indian wears in Bolivia.

Reading to the Latin class, Deirdre Cleveland uses the blackboard for support.

Taking a quick break, Stacy Pettry and Kim Rexrode talk in Miss Joan Berman's Latin class.

Learning the Lingo

Foreign language and English students sharpened their skills in a variety of ways.

Some of the activities of the Spanish classes included cooking Spanish foods and making crafts. The students made God's Eyes and masks, which are worn by Mexicans during the fiestas, as a part of a unit on Spanish culture.

The English teachers ordered new paperback books and selected new grammar and composition books for 1984-1985.

Teachers also developed a new language arts curriculum guide to be used in all county high schools in the future. Students did not see much of a change, however, because teachers were already doing most of the activities in the guide.

The Latin classes learned the value of Latin. The students identified English works that were derived from Latin. They learned how Roman culture has greatly influenced western culture in areas of art, architecture, law, and literature. The classes also practiced for Certamen contest rounds for several weeks to prepare for competition against the other Augusta County schools in academic games.

Playing the halftime show, members of the band practice for a football game.

Performing at the halftime show, Kelly Maxwell plays the bells.

Working with her mirror image project, Sonya Flowers glues down the second half of the image.

Fine Arts Get Involved

The fine arts department at Gap got involved in the community by brightening the lives of those less fortunate.

The art department took part in a project at Western State Hospital. Students painted the tunnels through which patients travel from building to building. The paintings were bright and pleasant according to Mrs. Kitty Armstrong, art teacher. This and other activities replaced the Art Club, which was dropped because of lack of interest.

Meanwhile, at Gap, the new hallway which was constructed to lead to Room 101 became a gallery. Framed pictures hung on one wall while student art work covered the other.

In the music department, Miss Leslie Whitby involved all of her singing groups in activities. The eighth grade chorus and girls' vocal ensemble went caroling at nursing homes in December. Songsters performed at Beverley Manor and Craigsville Elementary Schools in the fall.

The Bison Band had its annual pizza sale in September. Members also sold a Mexi-Meal kit and jewelry. A week long camp was planned for July so that band members could work out field shows for the 1985-1986 school year.

Do, Ra, Me . . . Miss Leslie Whitby directs her Concert Choir.

Team Places Second

Two of the highlights of the math department year were the Virginia Council of Teachers of Mathematics contest at Blue Ridge Community College in November and the annual math contest at James Madison University in October.

Sean Neff, Suzanne MacAllister, Jeff Reed, Courtney Hanger, and David Elphee all competed at Blue Ridge with the math students of approximately 40 other schools.

Sean Neff placed second in the analysis level while David Elphee placed fifth and Courtney Hanger seventh.

Sean Neff, Randy Moyer, and David Kiracofe went to the contest at James Madison. The team finished second in competition involving most of the schools in Virginia.

Students also continued to sign up for the computer class in large numbers and worried about Mr. Frank Swisher's geometry projects.

"Rubic Cube" . . . Katie Powers displays a geometry project.

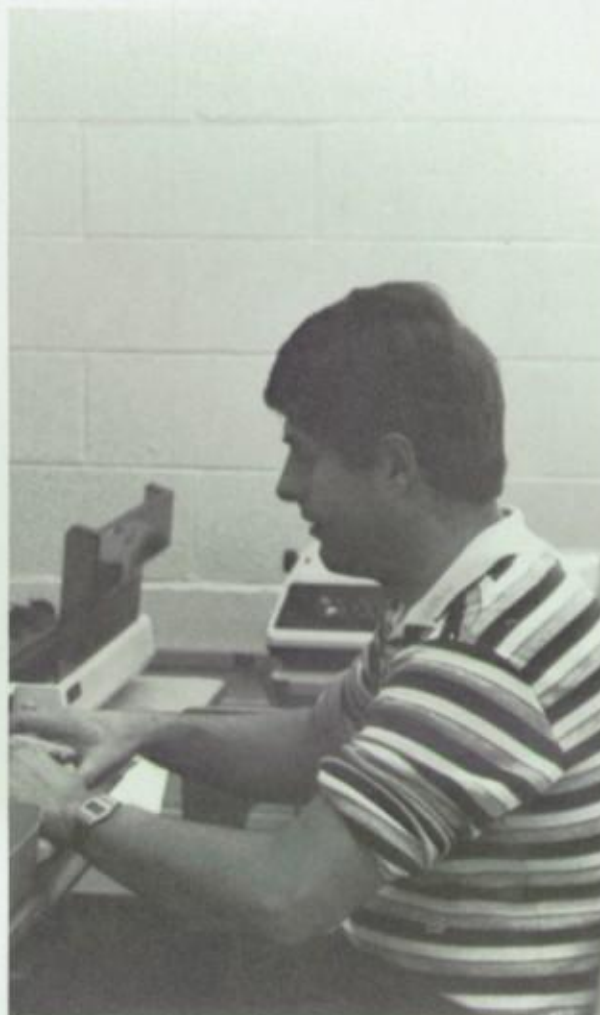

Talking in math class, Sherry McCauley asks Teresa Wise a question.

Sitting at her desk, Mrs. Gloria Ralston calls out answers to homework.

Typing on the computer, Mr. Dave Lineweaver enters a program.

Concentrating on algebra, Kevin Horne works in Mrs. Gloria Ralston's 5th period class.

"Dancing Flames" and "Singing Tubes." Kevin Brooks and Mike Remy demonstrate their prize-winning project.

Demonstrating her science project to interested onlookers is Sarah Cross.

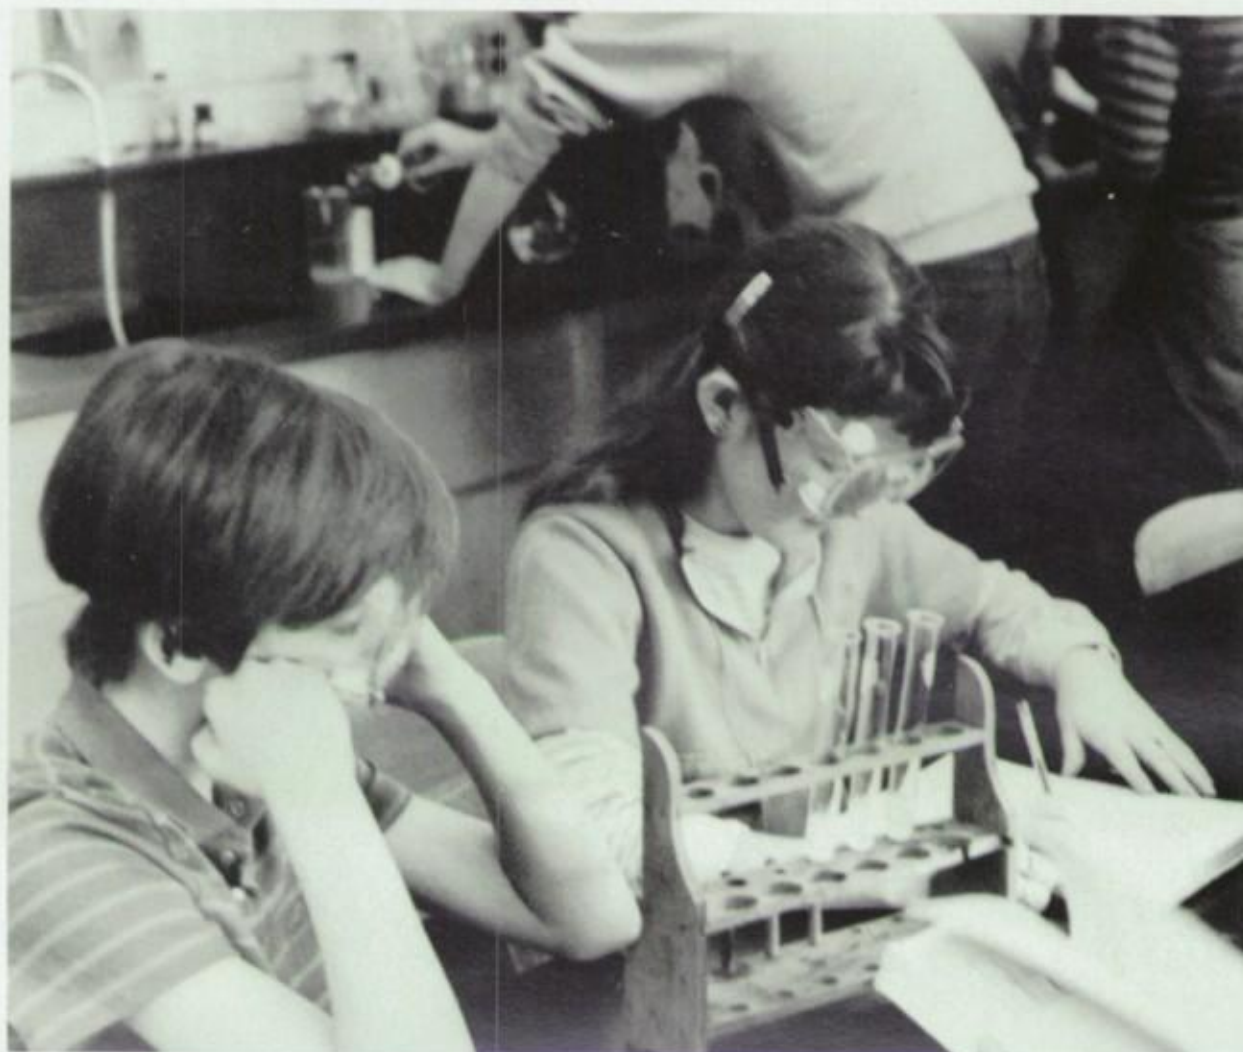

Supporting her project with surprising statistics, Patra Hull explains geotropism.

"You need a steady hand" exclaim Joy Ray and Donna Newsome as they explain the pattern of a pendulum.

Scientific Students

The biggest Science Fair in the school's history highlighted the science department's year. A total of 112 students entered 100 projects in the first all-day Science Fair on March 5. Kevin Brooks and Mike Remy won the best-all-around as well as first in the demonstration category for their "Dancing Flames."

The other main addition to the science department was Mrs. Salley Harmon. She taught eighth grade physical science and twelfth grade physics.

Giving directions to her eighth grade students is Mrs. Sally Harmon.

Determining acids and bases. Eighth grade students in Mrs. Harmon's class do intensive studies.

Showing how heat is reflected, Mark Ratzlaff explains the process to Sonya Wood.

Talking to the government classes, Mr. Peter Menk and Mr. John Hooe share their experiences with political parties.

Reagan '84

Reagan wins by a landslide! The social studies department highlighted its year by studying the 1984 Presidential Election. Other features of the year included student participation in Model General Assembly and Model Congress.

Model General Assembly started on March 26 and lasted until March 28. Twenty students from Buffalo Gap participated in the annual event which involved students from all area high schools.

Model congress lasted two days, February 12 and 13. The entire Senior class participated in the event, which taught the students about congress.

Still another new aspect of the department was the new World Geography teacher Mrs. Coleen Coyner who replaced Mr. Bruce Hollingshead.

Discussing the chapter in history class, Mrs. Beverly Wise answers questions from her students.

Taking notes in world history class are Ricky Benson, Ashley Oliver, Dawn Sheridan, and fellow juniors.

Clowning around in government class, Cindi Robertson and Jetanna Carter listen to Darrell Cobb tell a joke.

"Did you ever hear the one . . . " jokes Mike McCray while giving his world history class notes.

Answering questions in government are Penny Fridley and Amy Dickey.

Working with the computer, Mr. Tom Long predicts the outcome of the November election.

Down for the pin. Seniors Matt Woodson and Ryan Shelton wrestle in advanced physical education class.

Caught by surprise while teaching fifth period health is Miss Teresa Peduto.

Goofing off during gym are Dean Ashby and Rusty Sprouse.

Giving notes to her distracted class is Mrs. Vickie Nicholas.

Gym Class

Physical education and driver's training were two classes that most people looked forward to.

In 1984-85, P.E. students did their exercises to music provided by teacher Steve Baker. Aerobics was also added to the program. Mr. William Howe, one of the four physical education teachers, commented, "We put a few new things in (the curriculum) but it was rough because of scheduling."

Some of the classes' usual activities included basketball, volleyball, and soccer. Most important was the CPR course given during the winter months.

Spanish teacher Leonardo Lopez provided wrestling instruction to the advanced P.E. students.

One hundred seventeen students also took drivers' education, and for the second year had to pay $25 for the course.

Waiting to begin gym class are the sophomores.

Listening to Mr. Steve Baker's lecture on basketball is third period P.E. class.

Technical Training

School is not only English, history, and math. Students were also offered an opportunity to get vocational training at Valley Vocation Technical Center or at Gap.

Home economics classes prepared students to be efficient consumers and taught survival skills for every day living. One bright addition to the home economics department was several new sewing machines.

Typing classes taught application of typewriting skills in order that each student could meet his personal needs regarding typing. The typing classes received new typewriters and typing book holders which were very much needed.

Meanwhile, general business prepared students to figure their personal finances and accounting taught basic bookkeeping which would allow a student a job entry level skill.

Students also had the opportunity to attend Valley Vocational Technical Center for intensive study in a particular vocational area.

Testing soil moisture, Rebecca Cale, Tammy Woods, and Linda Ingram checked their geraniums.

Working on his project, Carroll Eppard prepares to set up an arc welder.

Learning the basic concepts of sewing, eighth grade students take notes from student teacher LuAnne Miller.

Trying to master the format of a manuscript, Michelle Cline and Judy Crummett type diligently.

Taking time off from the job, Mrs. Lois Horne chats with Susan Daniel.

Winning Together

State Championship: varsity girls' basketball team. Second consecutive State Championship: boys' cross country team. First round regional playoffs: varsity football team. District Champions: boys' varsity basketball team. District Champions: junior varsity volleyball team.

Winning together is exactly what Bison teams did in 1984-85.

The girls' varsity basketball team had a perfect season, winning 26 games and capturing the State Championship by defeating the Floyd County Buffaloes.

The boys' cross country team, for the second year in a row, captured the State Championship with Matt Richards also grabbing the individual honors for the second year.

The varsity football team had its best season ever with an 8-2 record and went to the first round regional playoffs at Central of Lunenburg.

The boys' basketball team became Skyline District Champions by virtue of its 10-2 record, and the junior varsity volleyball team ended its season by capturing the J.V. Championship with an undefeated season.

Working hard and playing their best, whether the chips were down or not, all Bison teams were "Winners."

We're Winners," yell the Lady Bison as they celebrate another win in their perfect season.

"In victory the hero seeks the glory, not the prey."

Sir P. Sidney

"I can fix it," says Missy Hoy as she tapes Ryan Shelton's ankle.

"I can make it," says Kenny Malcolm as he runs in a meet.

Gap Makes History!

Gap football makes history! For the first time in the history of Buffalo Gap the football team made it to regional playoffs. Although Gap was defeated 51-6 by the Central Chargers, the 8-3 record the team left behind made up for the tremendous loss. The team also made history by beating Riverheads for the first time in 13 years, 39-19, and by demolishing Wilson, 44-0, to break the old record score of 42 points.

Making it to first team All-District were Mike Stokes, Randy Moyer and Ryan Shelton. Coach Walter Sherwin, irritated at the fact that no Bison make the first team All-District offensive squad, named the Bison offense "The Second Team Offense." Cornerback Ryan Shelton even baked a "Second Team Offense" cake in honor of the guys.

"It was a super football season," replied Coach Walter Sherwin. "We had a fine group of young men that played great football," Sherwin added. He also felt that the team did not play well the last game, but he was quick to point out that there were 80 other schools that didn't play 11 games.

Going back to throw a pass, Chuck Bishop looks for a receiver.

Trying to gain yardage, Ryan Shelton runs the ball against the Lexington Hurricanes.

"Down, set, go," yell the Bison as they prepare to move the ball against Page.

Fighting for the ball, Ryan Shelton catches an interception against a Lexington receiver.

Senior Co-Captains: Dee Smith, Ryan Shelton, Coach Walter Sherwin, Darrell Cobb, and Randy Moyer.

Running to the outside, Dee Smith is followed by many Lunenburg Chargers.

Looking toward the sideline, Randy Moyer waits for the signal from Coach Bill Howe.

What is this, lying down on the job again? The junior varsity football team gets ready for another game.

J.V. Football Beats Odds

Even if your team is not expected to win, if you work together and be a "we" player not a "me" play you can produce a winning team. The 1984-85 junior varsity football team did just that.

"It (quitting) wasn't in their vocabulary," Assistant Coach Leonardo Lopez said about his 1984-85 team.

Coach Steve Baker added, "The kids did what was expected of them and didn't complain."

The team was behind in every game except one and yet came back to win or make it close to achieve a 5-2 record.

During a hot North Cross football game, manager Josie Lee gives water to Frank Kirtley and Randy Moyer.

Through rain, snow or even cold weather, football managers Missy Hoy, Penni Whitesel, and Chris Burdick never gave up.

Important People

What makes a team whole? Coaches, players, and last but not least managers. Some people overlook the job of managers, but these important people play a major role on the team. Managers' duties included making sure players had water, equipment, towels, etc. They were also there to give the team moral support and pep them up when they were down.

Some managers such as Senior Missy Hoy and Freshmen Heather Durham, also acted as trainers. Their duties included wrapping ankles, putting people in the whirlpool, and taking care of injuries.

"I like being around the players, but I hate staying after school for all that time," said basketball manager Darby Austin. On the other hand, football manager Penni Whitesel enjoyed both.

Coaches felt that managers were an asset to the team. "We would be lost without them," said football coach Leonardo Lopez. Coach Bill Howe replied, "You just can't do without them!"

Waiting for the balls to return, Darby Austin watches the girls' basketball team warm-up for State.

Playing around between volleyball games, managers Lisa Durham and Sherry Rexrode forget about the statistic book.

Checking and re-checking! Robbie Bowman looks over the volleyball stat sheet.

'Together'

2 cups of DESIRE
1 tablespoon of HUSTLE
1 ounce of ENTHUSIASM
A dash of LOVE
1 pound of TOGETHERNESS

These were the secret ingredients of the success of the girls' basketball team.

The girls' basketball team made history by capturing the state Single A title. The girls not only won state, they also won the district and regional titles and set two new school records. They set a new scoring record in their victory over Riverheads, 105-43. The previous record was 82. The girls also had a perfect season, 26-0.

Individuals Kelly Hoover, Sherry Rexrode, and Linda Jacobsen received honors. Kelly was named to first team all district and reached her 2,000 career point. Linda and Sherry were named to first and second team all district respectively.

When asked how it felt to be State Champs, the team said, "It is GREAT!"

It Takes All Five

If I have to name someone (who contributed most to the team) then I'll name "team spirit," stated Coach Tom Long about his 1984-85 girl's eighth grade basketball team.

This team spirit helped the girls finish second in the district with a 10-2 record. Coach Long contributed this record to hard work, hustle, and teamwork.

The eighth graders used spirit, teamwork, and the ability to press to overcome most teams. Their only weakness was cold shooting in some games, according to Long.

The girl's two toughest teams were Riverheads and Stuarts Draft. Riverheads had quickness, while Stuarts Draft had good size.

"I enjoyed it and plan to coach in the future, stated Coach Long. "The girls are fun to coach and showed a great deal of enthusiasm and improvement as the year progressed."

J.V.'s Finish 3rd

"The girls were very receptive and worked hard which shows they wanted to learn and make themselves better players," Coach Vickie Nicholas stated about her 1984-85 girls' junior varsity basketball team.

The girls ended up 3rd in the district behind Stuarts Draft and Madison with an 8-5 district record and an overall record of 16-5. Their main goal for the year was to reach the J.V. Championship. The JV's ended tied with Madison at the end of the season, so there was a special play-off game which Madison won 27-24. Amy Fultz led the JV's in scoring, Beth Richards led in reboundings, and Katie Powers in free throw percentage.

"Even though we did not advance to the J.V. Championship, I still feel as though we had a successful year," Coach Nicholas said. "We had a few disappointing losses toward the end of the season, but overall the girls worked hard and had the desire to win."

They Did It Again

What does it take to make a winning team?

According to cross country star Matt Richards, it takes, "Everyone working together, a good coach, and everyone willing to work together as a team."

This year's cross country team certainly had all of these characteristics as "The Long Black Line" won the State Championship for the second year in a row. By achieving a 49-0 record, the Bison thin-clads made a state-wide name for themselves. Matt Richards won the individual championship for the second year in a row and set many records in his climb to the top.

Freshman B.J. Quick summed it up when he said "Team work, dedication, and hard work make a winning team."

Pushing for the finish line, Matt Richards passes Lurays Paul Johnson to win another meet as Timmy Byars moves up to capture third place.

Getting it together, members of the Cross Country team form a huddle before a meet.

A Touch of Spirit

Without cheerleaders, Buffalo Gap wouldn't be the same. They're at every game, whether it's home or away, cheering the players on and giving them all they've got. "I don't know how they get out there and cheer with skirts on when I have a winter coat on and I'm still cold," said Josie Lee.

They boost people attending the games spirits, along with the players. "Even if we're losing they're always there to pick up our spirits," stated Steve Malcolm.

Even after a bad day, when they're out there cheering, the girls have to forget their problems and concentrate on being enthusiastic. "No matter if we played good or bad we always knew they were behind us," said Sherry Rexrode.

When asked what it feels like to be a cheerleader, Susan Daniel replied, "It's really exciting and I enjoy cheering. Without us the games wouldn't be the same, because we add spirit and excitement."

Buffalo Gaps' cheerleaders were divided into two squads. Each squad consists of eight girls. Susan Daniel served as captain of one squad, and Stephanie Hostetter and Sherri Bradley headed the other. The girls practiced twice a week, put together new ideas for cheers, and cheered at games usually twice a week.

The boys' varsity basketball team surprised a lot of people as it finished its season with a 10-15 record and captured the Skyline District title. The boys were also Region B runner ups, defeating Fluvanna in the semifinals but losing to Cumberland in the finals.

Jeff Mauzy was selected to first team All District, and along with Ryan Shelton, was selected for the All City/County squad. Chuck Bishop was chosen for the second team All-District squad.

Size Was A Problem

If a basketball team is shorter than most of its competitors, it is in for a rough year. The eighth grade boys' basketball team had such a year.

The eighth graders finished the season with a 2-10 record. This record was not achieved by lack of hard work and enthusiasm, in fact these were the strengths of the team according to Coach John Sayers. The main reason for this record lay in the fact that the boys from Gap were the smallest in the county.

According to coach Sayers, the toughest opponents was Fort Defiance because "they were bigger and stronger at every position". The only two wins of the season were over Riverheads.

"Kevin Bartulewicz did a super job for us all year. He led the team in scoring and rebounding. Eric Fitt was our assistant leader," stated Coach Sayers.

Boys Have Good Year

The 1984-85 season turned out to be the best since 1979 for the boys' junior varsity basketball team. The boys' finished fourth in the district with a 10-10 record.

The team combined "potentially good basketball talent," more offensive punch, and everyone contributing to achieve the record, according to Coach Steve Baker.

The toughest opponents for the JV's this year were Stuarts Draft, William Monroe, and Madison. Monroe and Madison players were extremely tall, with some of the players bigger than their varsity counterparts. Stuarts Draft was strong due to the five sophomores on the team.

Trevor Colvin led in rebounds and steals. Todd Bishop led in scoring, and Dean Ashby led in assists.

JV's Have Bad Year

The 1985 track season was almost a complete reversal of the 1984 season for the junior varsity boys, but things were better for the girls.

The boys' team went from being undefeated in 1984 to having a record of 1-3. The only win came against Wilson, who forfeited.

The girls had a better year than the boys by posting a record of 2-1.

Girls Drop Ball

The girls softball team finished off its season with 7-11 record. Eight returning players and six new players comprised the team.

The outstanding players on the team were Missy Hoy, Melanie White and Beth Fultz, according to Coach Tom Long. Missy had good hustle, was a good defensive catcher and an improved hitter. Melanie was a good pitcher and Beth showed dramatic improvement both as a pitcher and hitter. Beth also hit six home runs.

When Coach Long was asked how he felt about the season he said, "The team had matured and improved a lot, mostly in hitting and some individuals have improved their defensive skills. The best thing, however, is that everyone has a better knowledge and 'feel' for the game."

It's a double! Melania White exerts herself as she hits the ball.

Last year was a rebuilding period for the boys tennis team. Mr. Garry Bruce felt that there were several high points which included him returning to the team after an operation. Another high point was when Eric Costa and Kevin Brooks defeated the Goldenburg brothers of Riverheads in an hour and thirty minute match. Next year Mr. Bruce will look for more consistency at the bottom of the ladder. He also looks to find good doubles combinations.

Organizing Together

Many Bison organized into groups for their own benefit and the benefit of others.

The Future Homemakers of America sponsored the Sweetheart Dance and picked Rusty Sprouse and Amy Fultz as the Valentine couple.

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes supported Maria Hernandez Gallegos who lives in Mexico. Every month they send $21.00 to pay for Maria's clothes, education, food, etc.

The Science Club raised approximately $1200.00 by selling Tom Wat. They used the money to finance their activities throughout the year.

Finally, the Student Cooperative Association collected food for the Salvation Army over Christmas. Also, the SCA gave candy to Western State patients over the holidays.

All in all, Bison organized for the benefit of everyone.

"Roll'em," says Donna Newsome as she shows an SCA film.

Big Plans

How would you like to have won a three foot tall, brown stuffed buffalo? This was one of the many money making projects that SCA sponsored. The SCA also planned the Homecoming, sponsored the Homecoming dance and gave a spring sock hop in March.

The SCA also purchased litter posters to fight the litter problem and bought bulletin board strips.

Collecting food for the Salvation Army at Christmas and raising money for families whose houses burned down were other organization activities.

A New Beginning

The National Honor Society inducted 22 new members 20 juniors and two seniors at an assembly in the fall.

Some money making projects that NHS sponsored were bake sales at school and at Riverside IGA to raise money for a scholarship that was given away to a member at graduation.

The NHS officers for 1984-1985 were President Mark Ratzlaff, Vice President Mark Zimmerman, Secretary Donna Newsome, Treasurer David Kiracofe, and Reporter/Historian Grace Brown.

Lights, Camera, Action

A play about the Blue Ridge Mountains and a lighthearted comedy were the highlights of the 1984-1985 Drama Club season.

"Foxfire" was a one act play about the ways of life in the Blue Ridge Mountains. The play starred Mark Ratzlaff and Heather Simpson.

Instead of a musical, the club presented a spring comedy entitled Get Smart. The play was based on the old television series of the same name.

Auditions were open to all students, but the cast only consisted of 27 people.

Journalism Gets Experience

The Journalism I and II classes published six issues of the Black and Gold, including the Valentine issue which came out two weeks late due to snow.

The classes produced a music video using a portable color camera. The portable camera allowed the students more flexibility in programming.

The TV scripts included a take off of Charlie Daniels' "Legend of Woolly Swamp" and a silent video of Van Halen using figures made of clay.

A Busy Year

The Student Action for Education group sponsored many projects including providing refreshments for the Parent Conference in October.

During December the club sold Christmas ornaments, tins of note pads, and went Christmas caroling at Oak Hill Nursing Home.

At the regular monthly meetings, SAE viewed the film The Elephant Man and had two speakers. Mrs.

Maggie Kyger and Mrs. Linda Bowen told the group about learning disabilities. These and many of the groups other activities focused on the year's theme. "The Handicapped".

SAE also sponsored two bake sales, prepared refreshments for teachers one afternoon after school and toured Woodrow Wilson Rehabilitation Center.

Active AIASA

The American Industrial Arts Student Association, AIASA, sponsored a Halloween Dance and movie and two raffles, not to mention a trip to Richmond for state competition.

The club's biggest activity of all, however, was the summer trip to Florida for national competitions. As club member Tim Dula said, "It's fun to meet different people and to just plain have fun on the trips."

Vice President Mike Remy attributed much of the success of the club to its sponsor, Mrs. Elaine McDorman. "She gives a lot of her school and free time to help the club any way she can," he said.

New Stuff

The Spanish and Latin Clubs offered many new and exciting things to their members.

Spanish Club members took a field trip to Richmond to see a play performed in Spanish. They also heard a talk on South American Cowboys by Mr. William Bray of Swoope.

The Latin Club participated in many activities including building a float in the Homecoming Parade and pulling a chariot in the Staunton Christmas Parade. The Latin Club also planned a county-wide Certamen featuring games and academic competition on March 16 at Riverheads.

Both clubs celebrated Foreign Language Week March 4-8.

A Working Year

The Varsity Club had a busy year which started out with the magazine sale. Club members helped out in the athletic department by buying a tennis machine and a new trophy case. The club also purchased a vacuum for the varsity room and a new tri-pod for the video camera.

Members also sold cookies, and with the money from their fundraisers they purchased windbreakers for the members, numbers and special awards for earning so many service points, the towels and jerseys as awards for other fund raising projects.

Time Out. Brock Bartenslager and Doug Redifer take time to talk during an FFA meeting.

FFA Had A Busy Year

The Future Farmers of America sponsored many activities which included creed speaking and public speaking contest. A team also trained in Parliamentary procedure and presented a demonstration.

The FFA also sponsored the FFA banquet and sent students to the National FFA convention, Food for America Program, State FFA convention, and the Market Animal Show. They also got off to a good start with the annual citrus fruit sale, earning $2,200.

The FFA officers were: President Mike Huffer, Vice-President Brock Bartenslager, Secretary Jon Cromer, Treasurer Charles Horn Jr., Reporter Doug Redifer, and Sentinel Dwayne Wood.

A Helping Hand: FCA

The Fellowship of Christian Athletes sponsored a needy child Maria Hernandez Gallegos, of Mexico.

Maria stated in a letter to her sponsor:

"I am glad to have you as my Sponsor.

I like singing and praying at church.

I also attend school and I am very happy.

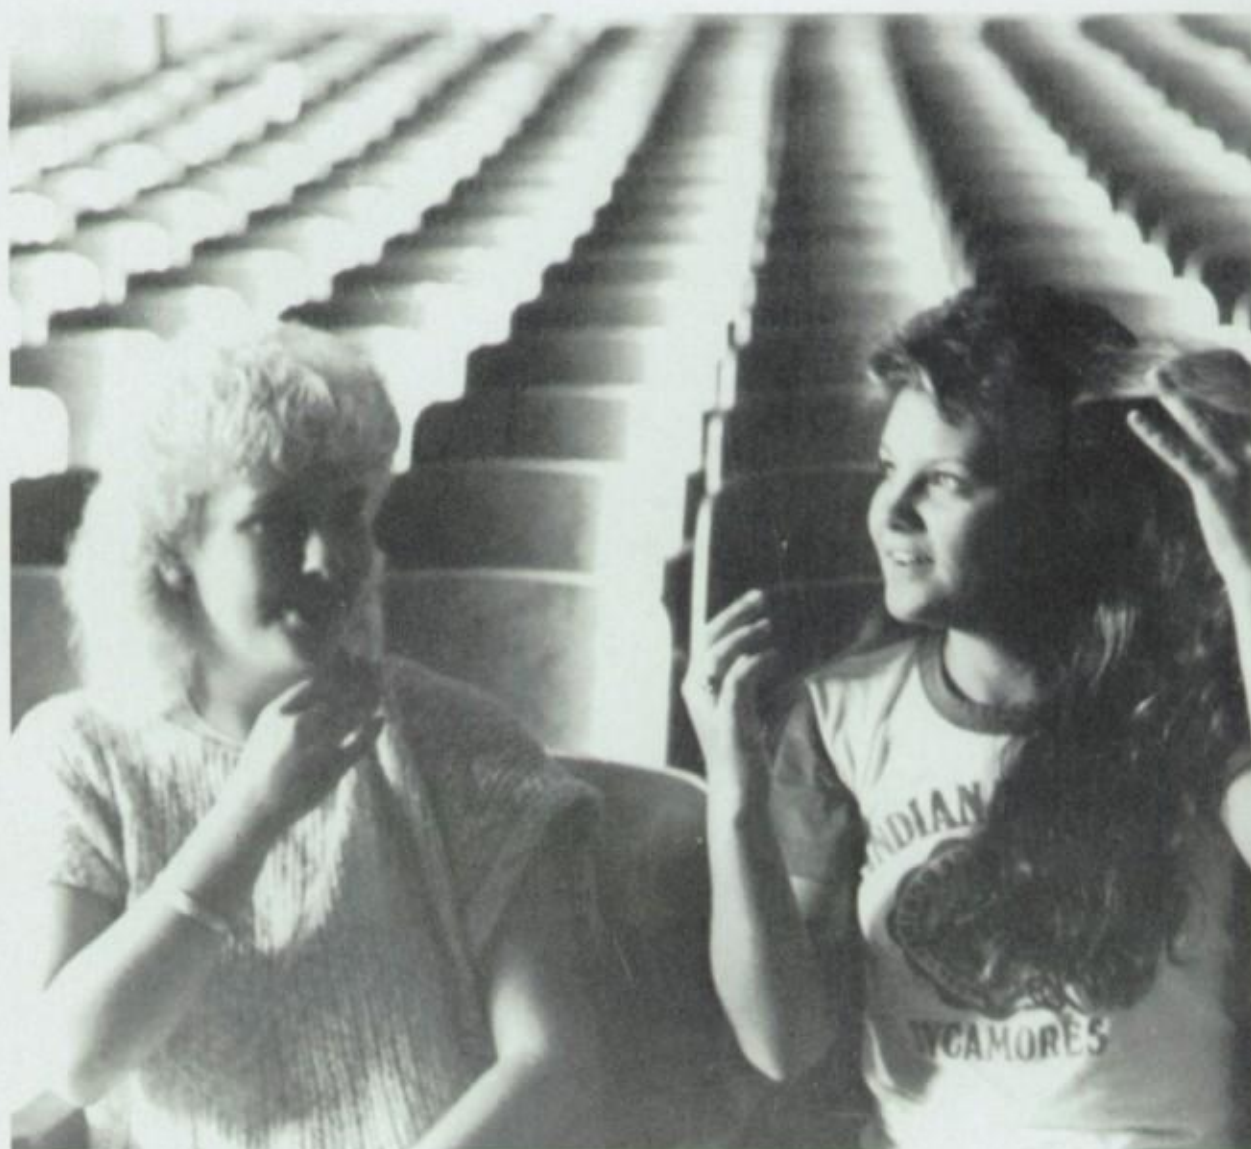

Meria Isabel Hernandez"

Maria was born October 24, 1976. She attended church and Sunday School regularly and enjoyed playing with her dolls.

Other than sponsoring Maria, the FCA had meetings in the gym on the first Monday night of each month. They collected food for the needy at Christmas and they also had a speaker from WNLR radio station in Churchville.

Changing Together

The student body as well as the faculty did a lot of changing together in the year 1984-85.

Seniors changed together as they made plans for the future. Juniors prepared for their SAT's. Sophomores became familiar with their new guidance counselor Mrs. Kay Menk. Freshmen started getting ideas for next years classes, and eighth graders had their first experience at taking exams.

Together the seniors planned a sock hop for January 25, but due to the weather it was cancelled. It was re-scheduled for February 1, but again due to weather it was cancelled. Then once more the seniors planned it for February 15, but once again the dance was cancelled. This time was due to a conflict with the Sweet-heart Dance. Finally, the seniors gave up.

The juniors' M & M sale was a big success, earning $1500, and the sophomores' got two trips to Tech instead of the one visit previous classes were allowed. Freshmen had to deal with the headache of deciding what classes to take under the new 22 credit diploma, and eighth graders had to deal with the headache of getting used to a new school.

Is the cafeteria food really that good? Mary With-erow, Heather Simpson, and Analisa Mickelsen enjoy it.

"Those that differ upon reason may come together by reason."

Driver's Ed Teacher or What?

Teaching driver's education might have been Mr. Bill Harouff's vocation, but singing was definitely his avocation.

Mr. Harouff sang with a band called "Windfall." The band sang acoustic, folk, country, and easy listening music.

The band put out one album entitled "Take My Hand."

Mr. Harouff said that he enjoyed singing. What he liked the most was

"Knowing that I'm doing something very well."

Mr. Harouff said that he also would consider singing as a career.

Mr. Young Runs For Fun

Who can run 26.2 miles in 2 hours and 42 minutes? Senior government teacher Mr. Ronnie Young can. He accomplished this in the Marine Corps Marathon by finishing 200th in a starting field of 11,500 men.

Mr. Young has run in ten marathons throughout the East Coast. Twelve to fifteen weeks before a marathon, Mr. Young goes into vigorous training. In marathon season, he averages 70-80 miles a week and while in the off season he runs 35-40 miles a week.

"The number one thing is knowing you're in peak physical condition and having self satisfaction in knowing you ran the fastest time you could" commented Mr. Young.

He also added "it feels good to know that you can discipline yourself for 12-15 weeks in marathon training to accomplish your goal."

Mr. Young has passed this discipline on as he coached this year's Girls' Basketball team an undefeated season and state championship. He also coached the Boys' Basketball team to a winning season.

The Crew

These were the people that made our school complete: janitors, bus drivers, and cafeteria workers.

They brought us to and from school, kept our study areas clean, and fed us lunch.

Cafeteria workers got up bright and early to begin preparing a nourishing lunch for screaming, hungry kids.

Bus drivers had a lot of patience to drive busses filled with students causing a variety of distraction.

Janitors had to sweep the hallways after countless pairs of feet paraded through them all day.

These were the people that didn't get much credit for what they did — but we wouldn't have made it without them.

What did the eighth graders want to achieve before they graduate?
Sandy Campbell . . . "To learn all I can and to have a lot of knowledge."

Janis Nagy . . . "To learn to drive and to be an 'A' student."

Eric Brown . . . "I just want to get out."

Lisa Strickler . . . "The 'B' honor roll."

Georgie Gregory . . . "To have more friends."

Scott Lucas . . . "To be on the football team."

Trevor Costa . . . "Be on the basketball team and get better grades than last year."

Is It Fair

On July 19, 1983, the State Board of Education approved new accreditation standards which provided for an advanced studies diploma. This became effective in the 1984-85 school year, with the ninth grade class getting hit the hardest.

Many ninth graders such as Jennifer Lee, Heather Durham, and Darby Austin felt that it wasn't fair. "Why should we have to work harder to achieve the same thing?" replied Jennifer.

With the new diploma, all students had to receive 20 credits in order to graduate. This put more pressure on the individual. "With the new diploma there is no time for leisure," replied Heather. "We have to work harder and take more subjects," added Darby.

Stretching to the beat, Darby Austin and Kelly Durham exercise in gym class.

The sophomores took the Preliminary Scholastic Aptitude Test on October 24. This test prepared sophomores for the Scholastic Aptitude Test which they would take in their junior year.

Most of the sophomores felt that the test was hard but a good learning experience. Ron Wright commented, "It was seriously hard," while Katie Powers said, "That was the hardest test I've ever taken."

Dwayne Wood said, "It was very hard, but I think it will help me next year."

Curtis Horn commented, "It was hard but I'll know what to expect next year."

Deidre Cleveland added, "The test was really hard, especially the math section."

Sarah Fisher said, "The hardest part was the English."

Sophomores Think About Future

What is Career Day all about?

Gap sophomores, along with other area students, found out and got a chance to think about the career of their choice when they visited Valley Vocational Technical Center to attend the Career Fair on October 24.

Curt Sawyer and Rusty Sprouse said they didn't like "the disorganization."

Andy Gilmer liked "the slide show," while Judi Bear said, "There wasn't enough time."

"We didn't get to have all the schools there, and all the representatives didn't show up that were supposed to," said Karen McCoy.

"We got out of school and got to think about our future," Sarah Fisher said.

Sonya Lotts didn't think there was enough time but said, "I liked all the different information they had."

Unique Eating Habits

Some people are known for good grades, their athletic ability, or maybe how nice they are. Not Junior Phillip Morgan. He was known for his eating habits which included mixing his food before eating it.

Why did Phillip mix his food? "It all goes to the same place so why not mix it to begin with? I think it saves my stomach a lot of confusion," exclaimed Phillip.

Junior Tony Swortzel best described Phillip's eating habits as "real sick!"

When asked if he would always eat that way, Phillip replied, "No, some day I might use silverware."

Were Phillip's eating habits really that gross? Only people who ate lunch with him knew for sure.

Jousting Junior

Jousting was an ancient sport in which two knights competed in a dual to the finish. The sport we know today as jousting was derived from the ancient knights.

Jousting today involves men riding a horse and trying to get a lance through three rings. Jousting is a sport that requires precise timing and concentration.

Junior Joe Back has been jousting for two years. Joe's cousin, Dean Bird, got him interested in jousting.

He competed all across Virginia, parts of West Virginia, and in Washington, D.C. Joe's uncle, Bill Bird, provided the horses for Joe to ride when he competes. Joe usually rides a mare named Smokey, who is twelve years old. Joe said his favorite aspect of jousting is, "Meeting the women".

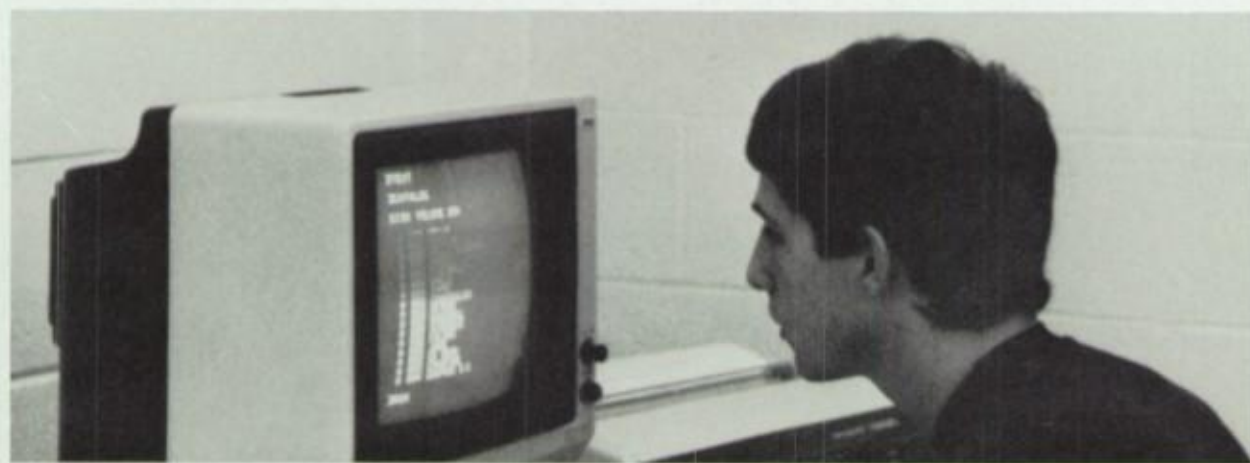

Joe practiced jousting every chance he gets, but it took only a week for him to originally perfect the sport.

Waiting his turn, Gary Pitsenbarger sets in the guidance room.

Waiting patiently for their test results, Jim Bowman and Philip Byram look on as Mrs. Beverley Wise hands back history papers.

Accepting her award for participating in the regional playoffs, Maria Hill shows her happiness.

Sitting on the bench watching are the five "junior jocks."

'Junior Jocks'

Maria Hill, Cheryl Grant, Beth Fultz, Tammy Clifton, and Kim Taliaferro all had something in common. They all were juniors who played on the state championship basketball team, and they all had to make the transition from JV to varsity sports.

Cheryl described the change as "hard work." Tammy exclaimed,

"It's true we didn't play much, but winning state made up for that."

Kim and Maria agreed that some of the goals they set for themselves were to get more playing time, to improve their skills, and to win state.

Kim concluded, "I feel we accomplished all of our goals this year. Now I'm ready to set next year's."

Throwing in the ball, Cheryl Grant looks for someone open.

After winning the Regional Championship the girls' varsity basketball team celebrate with coach Ronnie Young and then go on to capture the State title.

Best Dressed. Mr. Garry Bruce exhibits his participation in the S.C.A. clash day.

Great Popcorn Revolt

September 24, 1984, began with everyone thinking: "Just another normal day at Buffalo Gap." Little did the students know that this day marked the beginning of "The Great Popcorn Revolt."

Principal Glenn Burdick interrupted the usual morning announcements with an earth-shattering declaration: "Due to the fact that popcorn and suckers make a mess on the gym floor during basketball games, they may now only be consumed in the outer lobby. They will not be allowed in the gym."

Reaction to the announcement was immediate. Ms. Sharon Bosiack, biology teacher, said, "I thought it was right up there with the pink attendance sheets." Senior Penni Michael declared, "I thought it was down right common to take away our privilege of popcorn and suckers at the ball-games."

Students mumbled and grumbled all day. Some even helped to write an anonymous letter to the editor of the Black and Gold entitled "Where's the Corn?" The postscript? "Popcorn Forever!!!"

That night the revolt came to a head with popcorn sales dropping, spirit at zilch, and parents in an uproar.

The next morning — with much humility — Mr. Burdick announced: "Apparently, popcorn and suckers are directly related to the school spirit of Bison fans. Therefore, due to overwhelming public opinion, popcorn and suckers will be allowed in the gym. They will never be banned again." The battle had been won!

Let this be a lesson to future administrators at Buffalo Gap — never mess around with popcorn and suckers — or anything else dealing with the eating habits of the Mighty Bison!

Getting ready for advanced physical education, are Penni Michael and Dawn Sheridan.

Goofing around during lunch, Mike Remy, Tim Casady, Dawn Huffer, and Dmitri Smith show their affection.

All decked out for Homecoming Week, Joy Ray, and Sherri Bradley talk about their favorite college on "Support Your Favorite local Team Day."

Let's get physical! Penni Michael, Kelly Hoover, and Jetanna Carter get dressed for advanced physical education.

Tim Casady and Dmitri Smith show that being a senior is not all that bad.

Taking a breather, Mary Lynn Echard finds better things to do during Government class.

Looking Back

"I wanted to be an exchange student because I wanted to learn to speak English better and I wanted to meet new people and see some parts of this country," said Satu Siimesto, this year's exchange student from Finland.

"I'm really enjoying my stay here," Satu added, "The people here have been very kind and understanding to me."

Satu has one sister named Katja, a dog named Eros, and a rabbit named Lappy.

Satu liked the friendly people and the understanding teachers here at Gap. She also liked the football and basketball games.

The things Satu missed the most about Finland were her family, her friends, her dog Eros, some Finnish foods, and a sauna.

Satu also said she appreciated the people who were her friends, and added "I will always remember Buffalo Gap as a really nice school and I am really happy I have this opportunity to be a student of this school."

All smiles, Jackie Armstrong is greeted by Satu Siimesto of Finland.

Saying goodbye, Principal Glenn Burdick addresses the Class of 1985.

Graduating 'Together'

Senior Skip Day, Senior Banquet, Senior Week, and Senior privileges were just a few of the things which the Class of 1985 left behind when it graduated on June 7.

The commencement exercise took place in the gym at 7:30 p.m. Mr. Alan Carter of WNLR Radio in Churchville was the guest speaker.

Joy Ray led the processional as the first valedictorian of Buffalo Gap High School. She had a 4.0 grade point average. David Kira-cofe, Mark Ratzlaff, and Laurie Neff were all salutatorians.

The Class of 1985 had the reputation for being one of the closest senior classes in many years. By graduating, the seniors left behind this closeness and the pride it maintained throughout the five years of high school. However, the special moments which they shared — TOGETHER — remained in the minds and memories of the one and only CLASS OF '85.

Anxious parents and friends await the graduation processional.

The speakers. Mr. Eicky Woodson, father of senior Matt Woodson, prepares to give the invocation while Mr. Alan Carter looks over his speech.

pal Glenn Burdick.

All smiles. A proud Tammy Bland stands to be recognized as the winner of a business scholarship.

The first. Joy Ray is applauded as the first valedictorian in Buffalo Gap's 23 year history. She had a perfect 4.0.

Happiness, sadness, joy, and shock all show on the faces of the Senior Class.

Hurrah! Kim Capparella and her fellow seniors joyfully turn their tassels as they are officially graduated.

Graduated. Foreign exchange student Satu Siimesto and Seniors Michelle Minter and Gina Miller watch other graduates file out of the auditorium.

Living Together

Parents supported the school in many ways as they cheered teams on, came to banquets, and bought patron advertisements.

Don and Judy Cromer raised a buffalo and had it butchered. Palmer and Lois Bradley had it stuffed and mounted. The buffalo was then put in the main lobby to represent the school.

Other parents did such things as selling refreshments during games, bringing kids back and forth from practice, cheering teams on and coming to parent conferences.

Living and working in the same community, parents helped teachers and students make 1984-85 a great year.

During a boys' basketball game, Principal Glenn Burdick presents the buffalo head given by the Cromer and Bradley families.

"The dearest hope of the parent for his child is that he become all that he is capable of being."

Dr. Morris Meister

Stomper adds excitement to a tournament game.

Being recognized on senior night are Sherri Bradley and Susan Daniel and their families.

Remembering Together

Although the excitement of 1984-85 is over many Bison will be remembering together for many years to come.

The girls' basketball team had an unforgettable 26-0 season and captured the State Championship. The cross country team also gave us a State Championship for the second consecutive year. The football team left many people amazed as they broke record after record and the boys' basketball team captured the District.

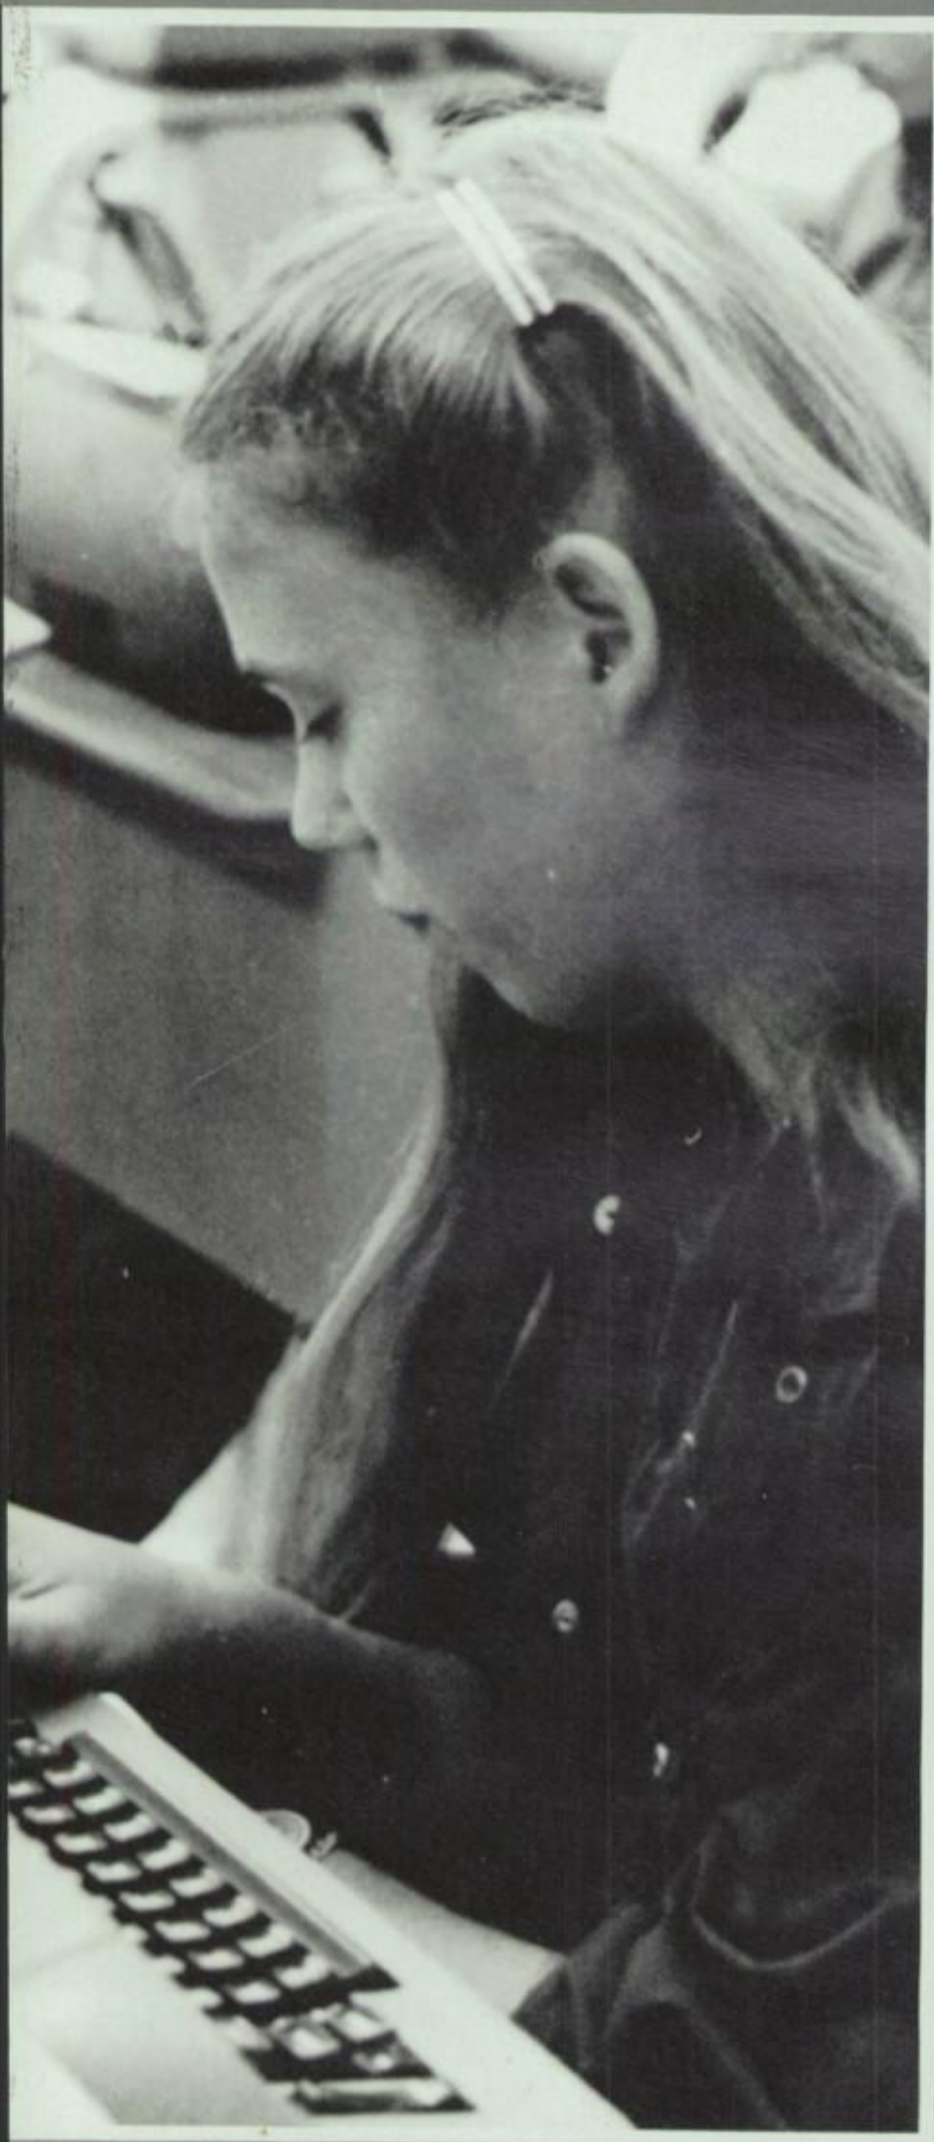

The Drama Department performed "Foxfire," and instead of the regular musical, presented a comedy, "Get Smart."

After school activities were not the only memorable events. The Science Fair was a big success as 110 students participated. More students then ever also got involved in Foreign Language Week as contests promoted Latin and Spanish.

More than academics and sports, Bison will remember the times in the cafeteria, the dances, the secrets shared, and all the joy of being Bison — TOGETHER!

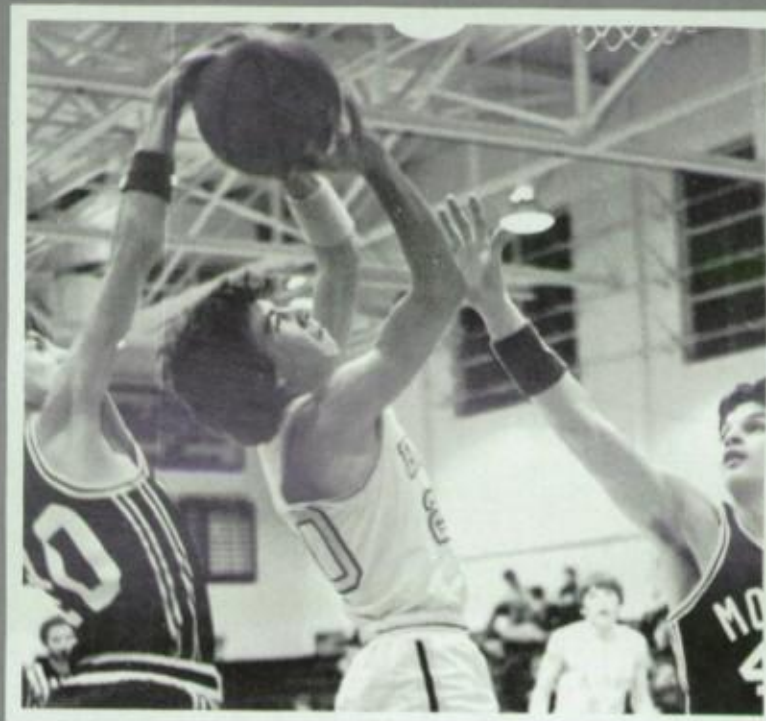

"Backspace 5," says Virginia Ramsey as she centers her name in typing class.

"The secret of success in life is for a man to be ready for his opportunity when it comes."

Disraeli

Using all his strength, Danny Ergenbright tries to get past the defense.

"Dag . . . it won't open," says Allen Losh as he tries to open his locker between classes.

Remembering

Renovations. A workman from the Central Office works on the construction of the new guidance offices.

Happy as can be, is what togetherness is all about to Stephanie Beverly and Kevin Murphy.

I'm glad we get out early, says Sherry Burgadine as she leaves school.

"Bye, bye," says Susan Daniel as she heads home during a snowstorm.

Together . . .

I can't believe it! Linda Gregory admires the beautiful flowers given to her by Tony Swortzel.

Guarding the school with a great big smile is Kathy Widner.

Busy as bees, are Paige Agnor, Josie Lee, and Stephanie Law as they work on layouts in photojournalism.

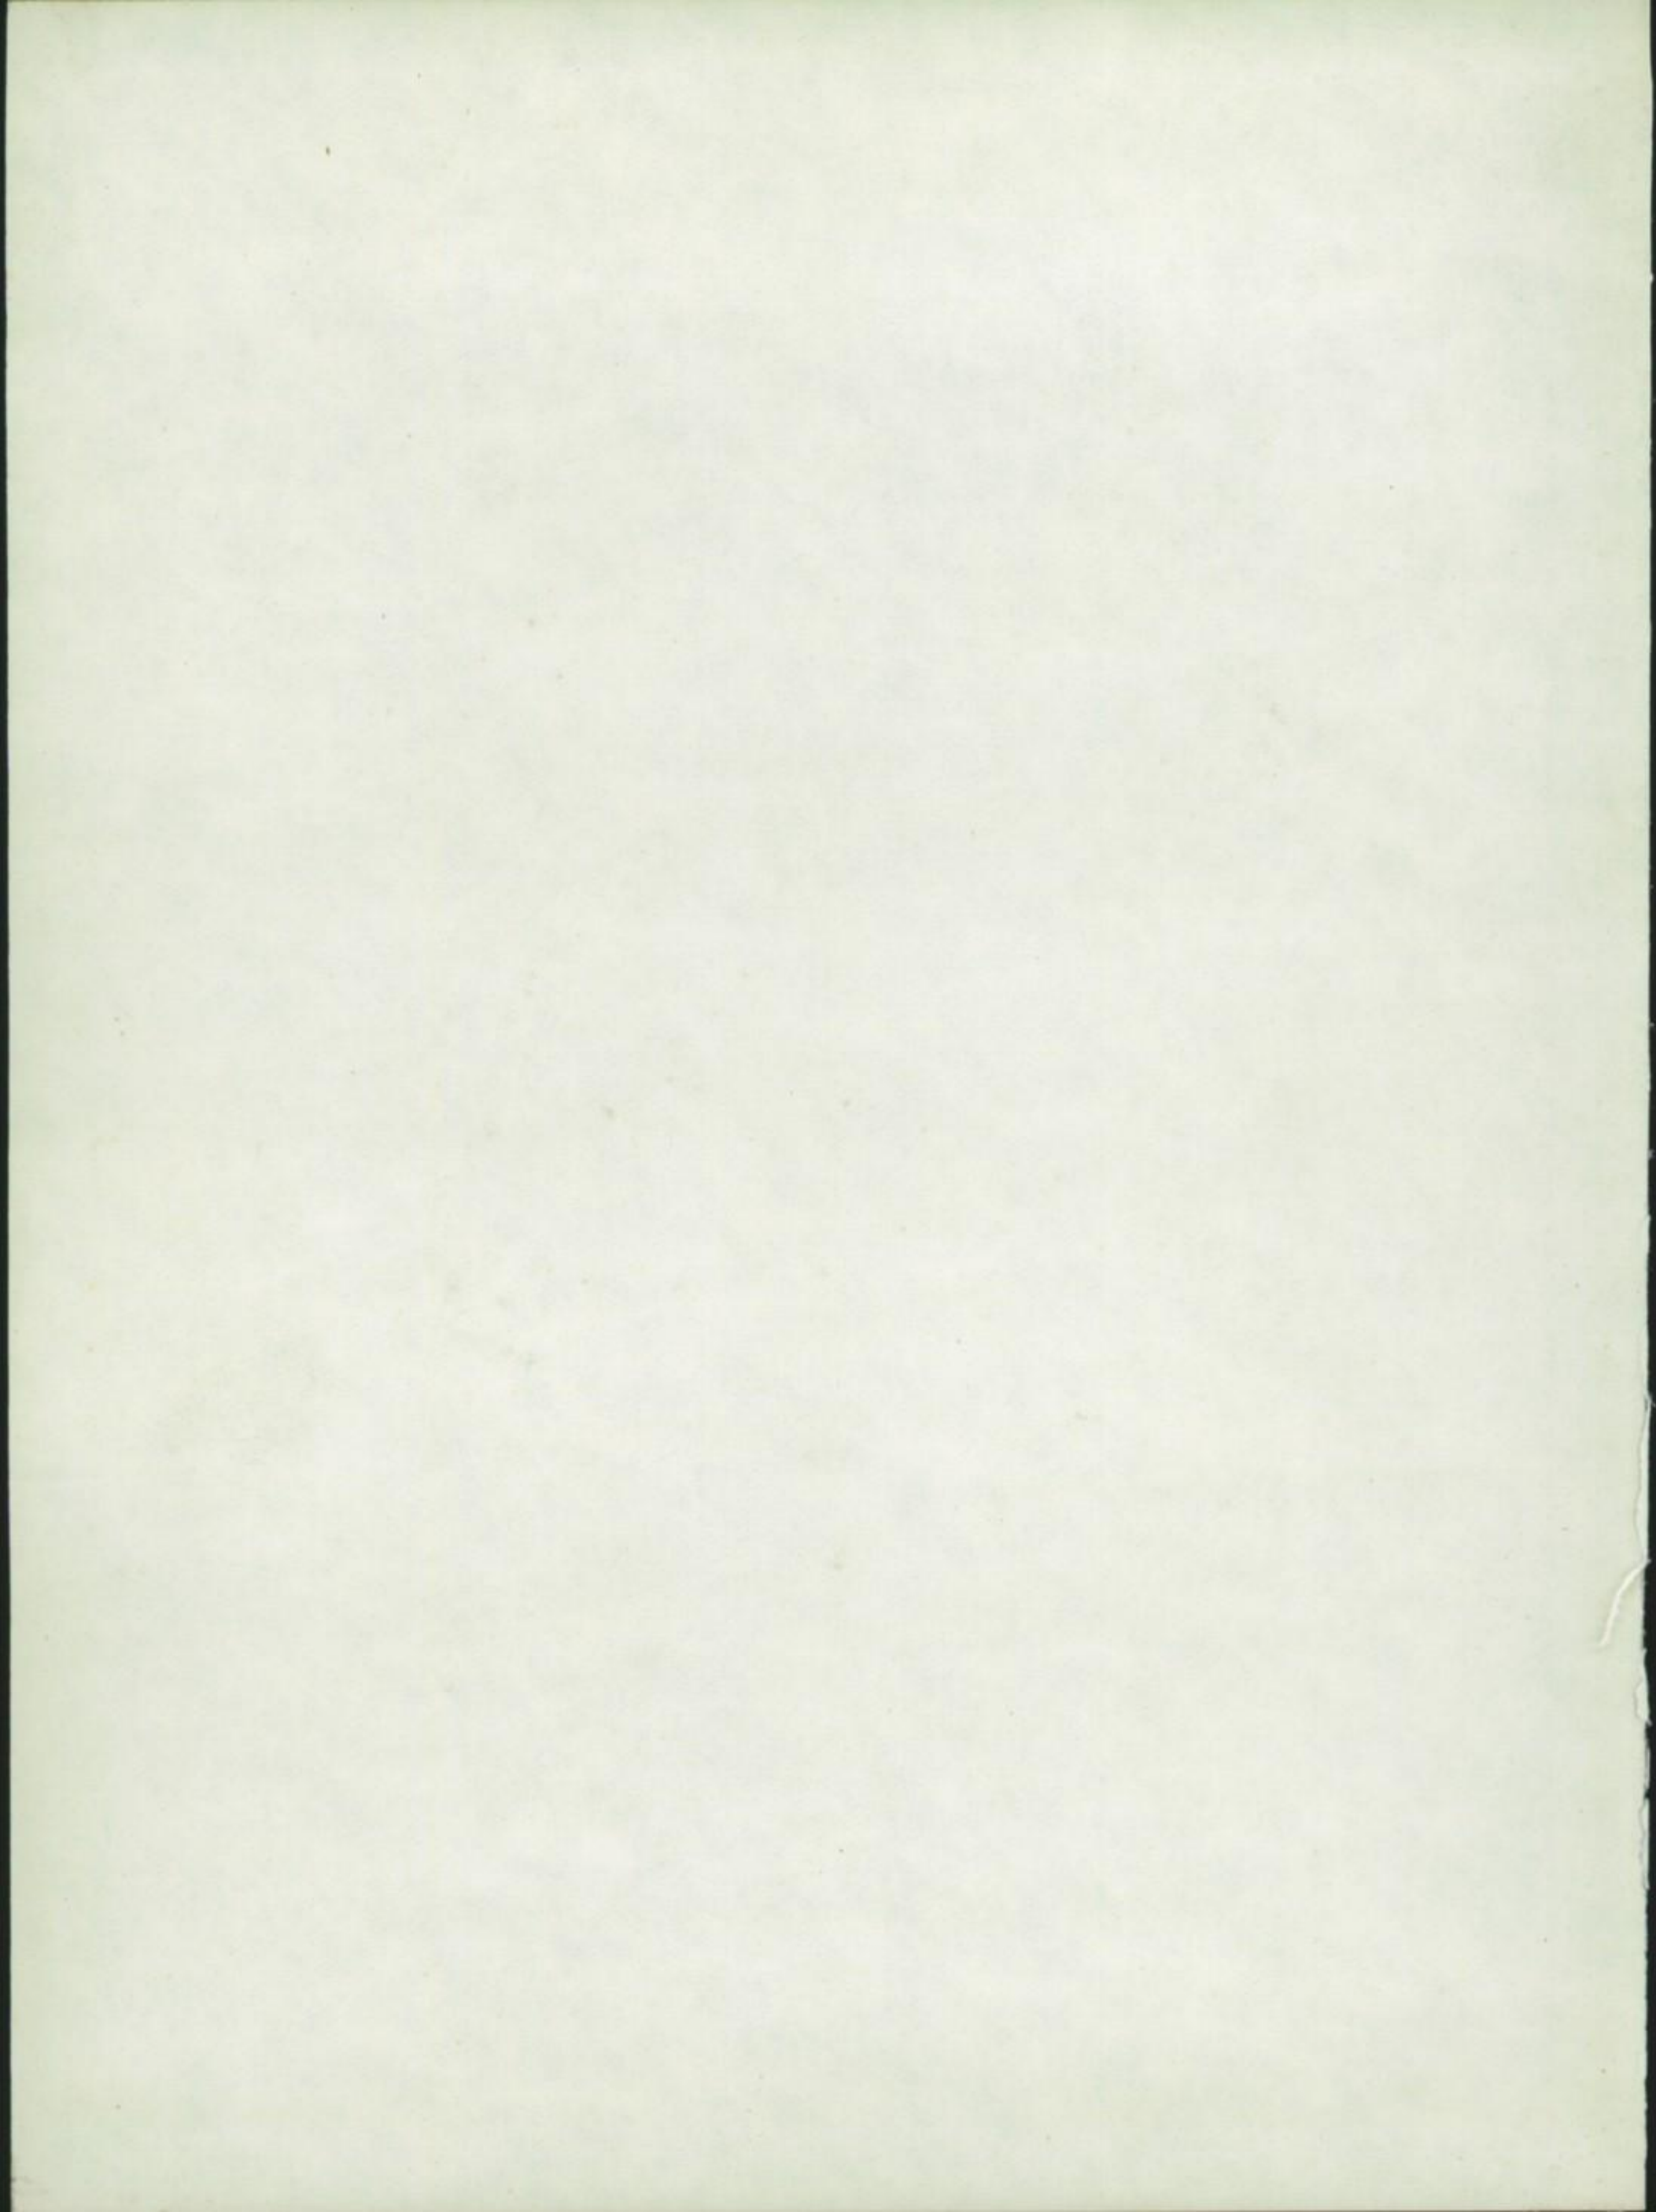

Photojournalism I and II classes produced the 1985 Golden Bison of Buffalo Gap High School. The $7 \frac{3}{4} \times 10 \frac{1}{2}$ inch book was printed by Max Ward — Delmar Studios, Inc., of Roanoke, Virginia, and Burlington, North Carolina. Mr. Arnold Ward represented the company.

Four hundred copies of the 176 page book were printed. The pages are 80 lb. glossy enamel. Century Schoolbook 10 point body type was used throughout.

Delmar Studios took photographs, and our own photographers took candid.

The Golden Bison is a member of the Virginia High School League.
